WITNESS FEES ARE REDUCED

Superior Court Affirms Decision of Judge Swope and Town Witnesses will Receive only Fifty Cents a Day.

The Superior Court of Pennsylvania has affirmed the decision of President Judge S. McC. Swope which was rendered February 12, 1910, and which fixes the witness fees in Adams County at $1.00 per day and mileage for those from the county and 50 cents per day for those living within a mile of the county seat.

The case arose out of the suit of Flemming and Bair against B. F. Bush, receiver of the Western Maryland Railroad Company for damages. Charles S. Duncan, Esq., attorney for the railroad, made an appeal from the bill of costs for witnesses' fees and Judge Swope sustained the appeal.

When the case was argued before Judge Swope Mr. Duncan contended that the act of 1907, a general act by the legislature of Pennsylvania, fixing the fees of witnesses at $1.50 per diem did not apply to Adams County and did not repeal the local act of 1905 which fixed the per diem fee of witnesses at $1.00 except those who reside within one mile of the county seat for whom the fee is fifty cents per day.

The local act of 1905 applies to the counties of Adams, Armstrong, Lycoming and Clinton and Judge Swope's decision was in line with decisions in similar cases in Beaver, Lancaster and other counties in the state.

W. C. Sheely, Esq., attorney for Flemming and Bair, appealed the case to the Superior Court which sustained the decision of the local Court and thus established the witness fees for Adams County in the future as 50 cents per day for witnesses living in Gettysburg and within a mile of the town and $1.00 per day and mileage for all others.

HOT WAVE TO LAST

This week will be one of high temperatures throughout the greater part of the country east of the Rocky mountains and in the extreme southwest, according to the forecast of Willis L. Moore, chief of the weather bureau. The general pressure distribution over the North American continent and the adjacent oceans indicates that this condition will prevail.

A disturbance over the great lakes will move eastward to cause showers and thunder storms in New York and northern New England. Another disturbance is threatened in the northwest Monday or Tuesday, moving eastward toward the St. Lawrence Valley later in the week. There are no indications of general rains for the week.

SCOTLAND BAND TO GO

The Soldiers' Orphans' Schools Commission has granted permission to the famous Scotland band to attend the national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, which will meet at Atlantic City during the week of September 19. The band is composed of fifty boys all under 16 years of age, and the little fellows are all fine musicians. They are expected to be a feature of the grand encampment. The band has been getting new music and practicing for the occasion, and will be proficient.

JOHN JOHNSON

John Johnson, of near Georgetown, Texas, died Sunday evening, July 17, at his home from the effects of injuries received two days previous when he fell over a plough. He was aged about 76 years. Mr. Johnson, who was the step father of Mrs. William Sharetts, of Stevens street, had been in failing health for several years. About nine years ago he visited Mr. and Mrs. William Sharetts when they were living in Littlestown. The funeral was held last week in Georgetown.

RECOVERING

Harvey Bream, who was caught between the engine and one of the wagons in Mr. Farrell's outfit last week, is getting along well.

What Puzzled Him.

Detective Frank Wood was walking up Prospect avenue last summer when he was halted by a merchant, who led the popular policeman into a hallway and looked him over from head to foot.

Wood wore duck trousers, a lil white vest with pearl buttons, a navy blue cutaway coat, or blood shoes, a purple cravat, a soft hat of some delicate texture, and in his left hand he swung and twisted a cane.

After the merchant had completed his survey and started away Wood asked somewhat petulantly:

"Well, sir, what does all this mean?"

"Oh, nothing," said the merchant; "only I wanted to find out why they call you a 'plain clothes man.'"

MAD COW GETS AFTER CHICKENS

West End Farmer Has Pet Cow which Develops Rabies and Dies from the Disease. Supposed to have been bitten by Dog.

A pet cow belonging to Peter Amley, who lives near Willow Grove about two miles above Cashtown, went violently mad on Saturday and after butting various objects and attacking other stock about the place was finally captured and tied, dying Saturday night from rabies. The affair caused considerable stir in the neighborhood.

Symptoms of the disease were first noticed when the animal which followed Mr. Amley about the farm started to run from him when he would call. The cow ran wildly about the fields butting into trees and various other objects and then returned to the barnyard where it attacked the chickens. The animal then started to bellow madly and could be heard for a great distance. It was at this stage that she was captured and tied.

Sunday morning Dr. Moriarty, local representative of the State Livestock Sanitary Board, was sent for and when he arrived at the Amley home found the animal dead. After an examination he pronounced rabies as the cause of the animal's death and ordered that all of the other cattle about the place be put under quarantine.

It is thought that the cow was bitten about three weeks ago by a strange dog which passed through that section and acted in a peculiar way. The dog was killed near Cashtown at that time and as it requires about three weeks for rabies to develop in cattle it is generally supposed that it was attacked by the dog.

N. G. P. ENCAMPMENT NEWS

During the National Guard encampment, from August 11 to August 20, the annual inspection will be made by officers of the inspector general's department and other officers that may be detailed as inspectors, under the supervision of Colonel Frank G. Sweeney, the inspector general, who will arrange the schedule for the same.

The muster for pay will be made at the same time, under the supervision of Adjutant General Stewart, by officers of the staff of the commander-in-chief, detailed for that purpose.

In orders issued from Harrisburg during the past week the staff and non-commissioned staff officers detailed for duty with the commander-in-chief, have been directed to report to the adjutant general at headquarters in camp, on Thursday, August 11, before 6 p. m.

General Bowman's recent order has designated the order of arrival in camp of the First, Second and Fourth Brigades and auxiliary organizations, which reach Gettysburg August 11, 12 and 13. The departure from camp in each instance will be made on the eighth day, including the day of arrival.

The encampment will be for eight days, for which per diem pay and commutation for horse hire will be allowed. Where special duty is to be performed, such as provost duty, or details assigned to take care of canvas in case of inclement weather on the days of departure, additional compensation will be allowed.

The chief quartermaster of the division, under supervision of the quartermaster general, will contract for forage, fuel, light, ice, water, team transportation, preparation of grounds and will make the proper issue of quartermaster stores during the encampment. He is also to arrange for the shipment of all camp equipment from the State Arsenal to Gettysburg, where he will make the necessary issues to the brigade, regimental and auxiliary organization quartermasters.

Company baggage will be limited to 150 pounds per man, which will include mess tents, field ranges, tent floors, cots, tables, mess chests and horse equipments for officers.

For the coming encampment the ration table of the Regular Army will be strictly adhered to and issues will be made in camp on the regular ration return on an eight day basis.

Fifteenth Cavalry will Return to Fort Myer by Rail. Review Disappointing though Carried out as Announced.

A request has been sent from camp headquarters to the War Department asking permission to have the three troops of the Fifteenth United States Cavalry return at once to Fort Myer by rail on account of the prevalence of forage poisoning. Several more horses have died and the officers wish to get back to their headquarters at the earliest possible moment.

The review on Sunday proved an interesting event to all in camp. A large number of visitors witnessed the spectacle and were disappointed though the affair was carried out according to program and exactly as announced.

Sunday was visitors' day in camp and the soldiers had more friends at their quarters than at any time since the camp has been in existence. The visitors came principally from Washington and vicinity.

The heat was felt at no place more than at camp on Sunday and every one there suffered a great deal from it. Charles McDonnell was overcome by heat at the morning review but after being given attention at the field hospital he recovered rapidly.

On Thursday of this week there will be night maneuvers in which the regulars and District of Columbia militia will participate. The West Virginia militia leave for home on Wednesday and the remainder of the troops on Sunday. Next Monday the camp will be deserted.

With the approaching close of the maneuver camp preparations are going along rapidly in preparation for the national guard encampment. A detail of engineers is here now doing the preliminary work.

There was more team stealing and other trouble in town late Saturday night but the provost guard and Detective Wilson managed to get things fixed up without any serious damage being done.

GETTYSBURG BOY WRITES OF TRIP

Charles Lott Writes to His Mother of Big Celebration in South America in which he Took Part. An Interesting Letter.

Charles Lott, of this place, who is with the United States ship, South Dakota, writes interestingly of a recent trip to Buenos Ayres, Argentina, to witness the centennial celebration in that city. He says:

The parade was a grand success as there were ships there from nearly every country, and the foreign element of the parade was made up of sailors and marines from ships of the United States, Germany, France, Australia, Spain, Portugal, Holland, Italy, Japan, and Chile.

The United States had the honor of leading the parade and our battalion of marines led the van followed by our sailors. We were cheered all along the route and our boys made a fine showing even though we did not wear as many fancy "gil-guys" as the men of the Latin races, as most of them wore full dress and we only wore our neat service uniform.

After all the foreign troops had passed, all the Argentine forces passed in review, and as that took several hours, we were through and dismissed in time to see most of the rest of the parade.

I enjoyed myself immensely during the six days that we were there. I attended the field sports, boat races, horse races, naval review on the Platte river and a number of other functions they had in connection with their centennial celebrations. I went sight seeing all over the city and it is one of the most beautiful cities that I have ever seen. Their decorations for this celebration was the finest that I have ever seen anywhere and were much more elaborate than those we have had in some of our big cities. Their electrical display at night throughout the entire city were the most wonderful that has ever been attempted and it was very successful. There are many fine streets in the city and also fine modern buildings, and at different parts of the city, in the central parts are parks which are beautifully kept with walks, lawns, flower beds, shady seats and playing fountains. It is a pity that some of our cities could not have copied after the Latins more in that respect and had some of these recreation parks in the central and business parts of our cities.

The prevailing language there was of course Spanish as that is the language spoken in all of these South American countries.

I attended a banquet there that was given by the Argentine Government to the chief non-commissioned officers of all foreign nations. I sat at a great long table with about 150 men from all the different nations where toasts were given by every nation and the band played the national air of every nation represented there. It was quite an experience and one that one does not often have.

GETTYSBURG HERO DIES

Chester S. Furman, one of the nation's medal of honor men, died in Bloomburg Friday night at the age of 68 years. He was awarded the medal for leading a band of men across an open stretch near Devil's Den, in the battle of Gettysburg, captured a detail of Louisiana Tiger sharpshooters who from a small building had been working havoc with the Union lines. In the same battle, when the Union forces were retreating, it was Mr. Furman who grasped the colors and rallied the men, turned a rout into a victory at that point. He was a former school director and was prominent in his home town affairs.

FED SOUTHERN GENERALS

Mrs. Mary Weaver, of Dover, the woman who had the distinction of having fed three Southern generals forty seven years ago, when part of the Southern army bivouacked near her home, died Saturday. She was 73 years old. Mrs. Weaver supplied Generals Fitzhugh Lee, Wade Hampton and J. E. B. Stuart with griddle cakes, eggs and ham when they visited her home just prior to the battle of Gettysburg.

SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

Read Mrs. Herrick's Sworn Statement

STATE OF NEW YORK) ROCHSTER, N. Y.
COUNTY OF MONROE) ss:
Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Compare to before and this is the result.

TRUST COMPANY SHORT $1,340,000

An Employee Stole the Entire Surplus.

PLUNDERED TEN YEARS

All of Assistant Secretary's Loot Said to Have Been Lost in the Stock Market.

Louisville, Ky., July 25.—Following an examination of the books of August Ropke, defaulting assistant secretary of the Fidelity Trust company, of this city, a meeting of stockholders was held and it was reported to them by experts that the entire surplus of the company, $1,340,000, had been used in the speculations of Ropke.

Owing to the fact that there are several millions of dollars behind the institution, the Fidelity will not have to close its doors, although the shortage of Ropke is one of the largest ever known in the south. The stockholders have ratified the order for the issuance of new stock, and $1,000,000 has been put out by the company and will be sold. It was issued at par value and it is understood that every dollar of it will be taken by the present stockholders.

Ropke, who is in jail unable to furnish bonds of $25,000, is a German, forty-five years old. He lived unostentatiously, but began dabbling in stocks and grain several years ago. He was successful for a time, but the inevitable losses followed. Ropke had been in the employ of the bank for eighteen years, and it is understood the investigation into his books will cover the entire period.

When the defaulting assistant secretary was placed under arrest it was feared that there would be a run on the bank, but instead the depositors stood by the bank, and there has been an actual increase in the deposits since that time. The Bell Telephone company sent a deposit of $100,000 several days ago, and other large sums have been deposited.

It was reported shortly after the discovery of the shortage that the present officers of the bank would be asked to resign. This has been repudiated by many of the stockholders, but it is believed there will be a few changes in the directorate of the institution when the stockholders meet in August.

The shortage of Ropke is considered to be the most remarkable in the history of banks, as he managed to take the money of the bank year in and year out for ten years without being apprehended. The books were examined at times, but Ropke was on hand to aid in the checking, and in this manner staved off detection until he had used every dollar of the surplus fund.

Ropke will be brought before the grand jury on Oct. 5 for indictment on the charge of embezzlement.

Rumors are afloat that he has saved out quite a large sum of money, which he will offer the bank not to prosecute him, but these rumors are not believed by officials, who say he lost all his stealings in the stock market here and in New York.

ROOSTER KILLS BUZZARD

Bloomsburg, Pa., July 25.—A game cock owned by William Fox, of Hunter's Park, succeeded in killing a turkey buzzard—a monster, five feet from tip to tip of wings.

The buzzard swooped down to the chicken yard, where the game rooster ruled supreme, and men a member of the family appeared a little later the buzzard was hors de combat and the rooster with his gashing spurs was putting the finishing touches on the job.

Lewistown, Pa., July 25.—Judge Woods denied Frank Lee, colored, a third trial. Lee was convicted of murder in the first degree twice in the Mifflin county courts for the shooting of George Porter, also colored, on the night of Nov. 28, 1908, following a quarrel over 80 cents.

SEARED BY NEGRO FOES

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25.—Lorrie Long, aged fourteen years, a "puller" employed in the Park steel mill here, was horribly burned while asleep upon a bench at his place of employment, by a four-inch white hot billet of steel, which, it is alleged by the white boy, was placed inside of his shirt, against his back, by a crowd of negro boys, also employed at the plant, and with whom there is a feud of long standing. The lad may die.

Six colored boys, from sixteen to eighteen years of age, have been placed under arrest, charged with the offense.

Killed by Lightning.

Ogdensburg, N. Y., July 25.—William J. Davidson, forty-seven years of age, was instantly killed, and John Botah, forty-two years old, so badly injured that he will die, by lightning during a heavy storm at Moore's Forks, near here. They were unloading a load of hay when struck. The horses were killed and the wagon and hay burned.

"Mathilde Browne was very rude to an over-dressed old woman she met on the street car the other day."

"I know the story. The old woman turned out to be Mathilde's very rich aunt, and now she's going to give all her money to a hospital for decrepit dogs."

"Nothing of the sort. In fact, it's worse. The old woman was the Brownes' new cook, and now they haven't any."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HELD UP COACH OF IMMIGRANTS

Four Armed Men Rob Aliens in Train.

New York, July 25.—Within sight of the lights of Manhattan, four men held up a coach load of immigrants at the point of the pistol and robbed them of perhaps $500 in cash, while their train was still standing in the West Shore Terminal at Weehawken, N. J.

A cry of "Police!" from the lookout gave the gang warning. They were able to mingle with the crowd and escape. The lookout was felled by the night stick of a policeman and is now locked up.

There were perhaps a hundred immigrants on the car. The order for "all aboard" had been given and many had their hands outside the windows, waving goodbye to friends, when two men stepped on the rear end of the last car of the train and two on the front platform. All four whipped out revolvers and shouted "Hands up!" "Shell out!"

Most of the immigrants did not understand the language, but the robbers were wholly intelligible. The four men walked down the middle aisle of the car from either end, taking jewelry and cash.

They might have got more if a trainman had not stepped to the rear platform and taken in the situation at a glance. He ran to the station yelling to the police. But the robbers had been warned by their lookout and bolted for the waiting room, where a thousand persons from the ferries were waiting for other trains.

The lookout who was arrested refused to give his name or tell anything about himself.

Taft's Ankle Is Better.

Bar Harbor, Me., July 25.—President Taft is at sea once more. His injured right ankle is better and less painful, and by the time he is ready to go ashore at Rockland tomorrow he is expected to be free from pain. His surgeon, Dr. Grayson, of the Mayflower, thinks the pain will be entirely gone by that time.

Baby Killed by Big Fall.

Mecca of the Buddhists.

Tibet lies between the latitude of Rome and Cairo, yet, owing to the fact that it is nearly all one series of lofty tablelands, its climate is purely arctic. There is hardly any rain, and biting dry winds send dust or dry snowstorms forever raging across its inhospitable uplands.

Lassa, its capital, is the Mecca of the Buddhist world, and pious Buddhists gain much merit by making the pilgrimage.

NEW TALES THAT ARE TOLD

Mayo Kept His Word.

The integrity of actors was the subject of a discussion one night at a club which players frequent when James O'Neill told this story of the late Frank Mayo, says the New York World. It seemed that the actor had needed $100 in the morning and had borrowed it from a friend, promising to pay it back before he (Mayo) went to bed that night.

"Mayo and I were having a late supper after the performance, talking of the day's work," said Mr. O'Neill, "when he suddenly clasped his hand in my pocket and jumped to his feet. 'By Jove, I've got to pay a man a hundred before I go to bed,' he said.

"Where does your friend live? I asked as we boarded a Broadway car, and you can imagine my astonishment when Mayo answered, 'I don't know.' "You don't know? I echoed.

"No. Somewhere in Thirty-eighth street, though, between Broadway and Seventh avenue.

"By that time we had reached the corner and alighted from the car, when.

"WHAT THE Dickens DO YOU WANT OF ME?"

As I was going to put another question, Mayo suddenly stepped out into the middle of the street and with a voice that filled the midnight echoes began to shout: 'Henry Ford! Henry Ford!'

"All along the street windows were thrown up and heads were stuck out to gaze at two lone men standing in the street, one calling, 'Henry Ford, come down and get your money.'

"A policeman came by and recognized Mayo, who explained to him that he had $100 that had to be paid that night and continued to call.

"We walked nearly the entire block, when a window on the top floor of a house was thrown open and a man's voice exclaimed, 'What the Dickens do you want of me?'

"Thank heavens it's you, Ford," called back Mayo. 'Here's your $100. Come down and get it.' "Yes," echoed the walls all about, 'Henry Ford, for goodness' sake do come down and get your money.'

Old Moon Beliefs.

The health, growth and development of children and animals were years ago supposed to be influenced by the moon. If the sign was right at the time of birth they would be well formed and intellectual, but if it was wrong there was no telling what sort of creatures they would become. Every worthless fellow, every dog, rooting hog, fence jumping cow or kicking horse was believed to have been born under an unfavorable phase of the queen of night. Queer people or those who were of hateful disposition were children of the dark moon, with the sign below the heart.

YACHTING PARTY FIGHTS FIRE

Gasoline Ignites After a Terrific Explosion.

25 HAD NARROW ESCAPES

Men Swim to Shore With Women and Then Fight Blaze—Used Clothing to Smother Burning Fluid.

Federalburg, Md., July 25.—A terrific explosion occurred on the Philadelphia yacht Wissahickon, owned by A. Gilbert Longaker, a well known business man of Philadelphia.

At the time of the explosion there were on board Mr. Longaker's son Horace and his brother, Hiram Longaker, together with a number of pleasure seekers from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Federalburg.

The explosion brought about a sad climax to an anticipated moonlight trip down the Nanticoke. It happened shortly after the yacht had left Federalburg, when the feed pipe working loose. The engine back-fired, igniting the gasoline that had leaked out. In an instant the yacht was on fire, and the greatest excitement prevailed. Of the twenty-five on board only six could swim.

In the midst of the excitement Miss Norma Brower jumped overboard in twenty feet of water. She could not swim, but was rescued by heroic work on the part of Orlando McClure.

Swim to Shore With Women.
Having no fire fighting apparatus aboard, the men and women were compelled to remove part of their clothing in an effort to smother the fire. When the fire seemed to be gaining the women became frantic, and the men realized that something had to be done quickly.

In an instant the young men who could swim seized the women and started for shore, about a hundred yards away, which they reached, but had to leave the ladies on the marsh, where they remained in three feet of water, while their rescuers returned to fight the fire, which they finally succeeded in extinguishing.

Theodore Adams, the engineer, although seriously burned about the arms and face, pluckily stood at his post and prevented any means of the fire reaching the gasoline tank. Many of the yachtsmen lost much of their clothing, jewelry and money. They finally reached here after a five mile walk through dense thickets.

Those in the party were: Horace and Hiram Longaker, of Wissahickon; William C. Leslie, Clarence Handy, Floyd Williams, Philadelphia; Orlando McClure, Benjamin Nichols, Baltimore; Louise Wilson, Cambridge, Md.; Harvey Williams, Ralph Brown, William S. Smith, Theodore Adams, Henry Miller, Charles Wright, Norma and Vera Brower, Ethel, Iva and Laura Davis, Eva and Virginia Williams, Ruth and Agnes Elliott, Eva Wright, Federalburg.

DEMOCRATS FIGHT MURPHY

Follow Osborne In Convention to Control Campaign.

New York, July 25.—A strong showing of New York state Democrats intends to prevent if possible Charles F. Murphy, of Tammany, from controlling the Democratic state convention in September and naming the candidate for governor. In this movement are Democrats connected with the state committee as well as with the Democratic state league.

Friends of Thomas Mott Osborne, chairman of the Democratic State league, are in town consulting with important Democrats on steps to bring about Osborne's nomination for governor. They came here at the request of Osborne, they said, and the counsel they received was to inform Osborne to get all the delegates he could from every part of the state, on the theory that the more candidates there are in the field and the more delegates pledged to these various candidates the more difficult it will be for Murphy to control the convention and name his own candidate for governor.

LOST VALUABLE BROOCH

Mrs. C. W. Morse Reports Loss to Atlanta Police.

Atlanta, Ga., July 25.—Mrs. Charles W. Morse lost a costly brooch while in Atlanta recently on a visit to her husband, who is confined in the federal prison.

Mrs. Morse reported her loss to the Atlanta police department, but so far no trace has been found of the brooch. The brooch is made in the shape of a turtle and has a large pearl in the center, surrounded by valuable diamonds.

The jewel was given to Mrs. Morse by her husband soon after their marriage, and is one of the few pieces of jewelry she has left. She thinks it likely that the gem was stolen from her dress when she was caught in a crush at the Atlanta union depot.

MRS. GRICE AND HER BABY FOUND ALIVE

Sharpsburg, Md., July 25.—Mrs. James Cleveland Grice, the Sharpsburg girl-bridge, and her seven-week-old child, who were supposed by the authorities of Maryland and Pennsylvania to have been murdered by the husband and father, are both alive and well.

Mrs. and Mrs. Grice are living together in Blackwell City, Okla., having taken up their residence about ten days ago. The couple spent several days in Washington before they went west.

Baby Grice, who was said to have been murdered by her father, is cooing and kicking the covers off in a neat little cot in the Sylvan Heights Home for Orphans, at Twelfth and Derry streets, Harrisburg, Pa., where she was taken by her mother on June 15, the day following her mysterious disappearance.

James Cleveland Grice, who was to have been the honor man in the graduating class of the Millersville Normal school at Lancaster, was arrested on the charge of doing away with his wife and baby.

It is learned that after leaving the Lancaster jail Grice went to his parents' home, in Sharpsburg, where he met his wife. On the fourth day after his release he and Mrs. Grice went to Washington, where they boarded a train for the west.

BUNCOED BRIDE SEEKS DIVORCE

"Countess Aberdeen" Asks Freedom From Hasty Marriage.

HAD A "PROMISING" FUTURE

Maryland Girl, Dazzled by Titles and Stories of Immense Wealth, Repents When Brothers Expose "Nobleman."

Elkton, Md., July 25.—Mrs. Irene F. Stanley has filed suit for absolute divorce from her husband, Henry F. Stanley. The couple became acquainted, were married and separated all within twenty days.

Stanley came into Calvert, Cecil county, the first week in June, 1907, claiming to be the Lord of Preston, Earl of Aberdeen and several other titled personages.

He became the guest of Joseph McVey, one of the largest land owners in that section. He soon dazzled the McVey family with stories of his high connections and immense wealth, but confided to the McVey family that he was embarrassed by the fact that he could not come into his full estate until married. He offered to give any member of the family $1000 if they would introduce him to a young woman who had been used to living in wealth and that could grace such a title as Lady Stanley.

"Lord" Stanley was introduced to several young women, among them Miss Irene Clayton. With a celerity not English in the least, Lord Stanley proposed and Miss Clayton accepted him. July 2 was set as the wedding day.

Meanwhile the Earl of Aberdeen, accompanied by Miss Clayton, came to Elkton to have Attorney L. Marshall Haines, now dead, draw his will and arrange a marriage settlement.

The future Countess of Aberdeen was to have $20,000 a year to live on and entertain her country friends, should they ever cross the ocean to visit her. On June 24 the couple while out driving hurried to Oxford, Pa., and were married by Rev. R. H. Taylor, of the Oxford Presbyterian church.

The haste was accounted for by the unfeeling actions of Miss Clayton's brothers, who failed to be impressed by the titles of nobility that were being thrust upon their home. After an investigation the Clayton boys found that Stanley's claims were unfounded and that he had tricked their sister into a marriage.

Two days after the wedding the earl stood a good chance of some rough handling by the people of Calvert, when he made a hasty trip to Oxford, Pa., where he took a position in a butcher shop. He was later found by the Clayton boys and when advised that they were after the bogus lord he skipped the country and has never been heard of since.

Mrs. Stanley in her petition for divorce asks that her maiden name be restored to her. Desertion is the grounds on which the divorce is asked by the plaintiff.

Rivals For Summer Girl's Favor Too Evenly Matched to Decide.

Asbury Park, N. J., July 25.—After pummeling each other for an hour and a half for the favor of a "summer girl," Charles Delaney, of Brooklyn, and Charles Daly, of Buffalo, settled the question by resorting to the rather unique method of throwing dice. Delaney threw a pair of deuces and a pair of fives. Daly threw four aces. The dice plan was suggested by the men's seconds.

The battle was fought in a secluded neck of woods west of Avon. The appearance of both men shows the fight was a hot one. The pair were evenly matched, and at the end of an hour and a half they accept the plan of throwing dice as a compromise. The girl's name will not be divulged by the principals nor friends.

TWAIN'S FIRST LECTURE.

Bret Harte Headed the Clique, but the Audience Swamped Them.

Mr. Clemens prepared a lecture for his San Francisco audience, giving a most extravagant account of what he had seen among the south sea islands. When Bret Harte and some other of his friends were told of his platform intention they agreed to go in a body to the old Mechanics' hall, where Twain was to deliver himself, and form a big clique that would insure the success of the affair.

Mark wrote his own handbills, which set the town agog with anticipation. One particularly inviting phrase printed at the bottom of the announcement was, "The trouble will begin at 8 p. m." The hall was crowded, and the clique was uproarious when Clemens appeared upon the platform. The lecture was delivered with manifest effort in a slow, deliberate, drawing manner, and the lecturer paid no heed whatever to the incoherent demands of "Faster, faster! We can't stay here all night!" and other urgent calls.

Although Harte tried to steer the claqueurs, they insisted upon applauding and laughing in the wrong places, which may or may not have been intended as a joke on Twain, but at last the audience, which began to catch on to the unique style of the man and to appreciate his quaintly whimsical utterances, overwhelmed the claque and had things its own way.

An old timer who attended the lecture says of the effect of Twain upon his first audience: "His slow drawl, the anxious and perturbed expression of his visage, the apparently painful effort with which he framed his sentences and, above all, the surprise that spread over his face when the audience roared with delight or rapturous applause the finer passages were unlike anything of the kind they had ever known. The lecture was a great success."—Ballet Millard in Hampton's Magazine.

Dwarfing Them All.

From giants the conversation had turned, naturally, to dwarfs, and the various accomplishments of the various Tom Thumbs had been related at length. Then the club bar bustled in.

"All those dwarfs you've mentioned are right enough," he declared airily, "but none of them can compare with a stunted specimen I once came across in the wilds of central Africa."

The audience began visibly to dwindle.

"Now, he was short, if you like," continued the club bar, speaking rapidly. "I know you are a set of unbelievers, gentlemen, so I will not venture to give you his height in actual inches, but I will tell you this, friends—that that man was so short that every time his corrus hurt him—"

"Well?" queried the only relict.

"—every time his corrus hurt him," repeated the narrator, "he fancied he had a splitting headache."

The Silver Penny.

According to high authority, the silver penny of King Alfred is the earliest authentic Saxon coin that can be traced with certainty to the London mint. Athelstan, about 928, was the first British king to enact regulations for the government of the mint, but the coinage was debased by the minters during the several reigns following. To such an extent was this fraud carried on that in the reign of Henry I, dealers in the markets refused to accept current money, and when the king summoned the minters to appear at Winchester only three men out of ninety-four escaped mutilation and banishment. Henry I. is said to have instituted a mint at Winchester in 1125, but the English do not seem to have been proficient in the art of coining. For Stow relates that in the reign of Edward I, the mint was kept by Italians. In Henry III's time English money greatly improved in appearance, and in his reign took place the first gold coinage in that country. In the following reigns money was again debased, and it became so bad that Queen Elizabeth called in all corrupted coins, and new ones were issued, for the first time having the edges milled.

Ways of the Somali.

A correspondent gives a good description of the Somali, who as a fighting man is not first class, though he is fond of drill and proud of his uniform. But he is by nature decidedly effeminate. His toilet is a constant source of anxiety to himself, and the pains he will take to curl his crisp black hair by the application of various substances to his head are incredible. He is fond of flattery, of luxurious and indolent habits and keeps up an incessant fire of chatter. He is grasping and in the matter of food is greedy. Timid in the presence of the European, he is easily excited and quickly loses his head. Dancing is one of his chief pastimes, accompanied by the loud clapping of hands and a continuous and monotonous wail, which no doubt does duty for a song. Somali women never dance and scarcely even smile. They are completely cowed by the men, who treat them in most cases unkindly if not actually cruelly. The Somali is most punctilious in the performance of his religious rites, but he seems hypocritical to a degree.—London Express

ONE CITY FARMER LESS.

A New York artist of repute, whose work on cows had been astute, decided to avoid the glow and give the farmers the know how. He took his wad and bought a farm. Shook off the city's dust and charm. To show those farmers how to till the soil which they had used so ill. His dairy would be sanitary. His eggs would hold no germ, so scary. He'd grow a wormless, seedless cherry And be a wizard with the berry.

But milking cows would be his forte. One pull and there would be a quart. By hypnosis and high art. That cow would quick with her milk part. But, oh, alas—will you believe? That dude is dead! Come, with me grieve! Come to his grave and read the tale Of that dude farmer's sad finale.

Remorseful in Caem. Here he lies, a victim of a joke. Who came to us farmers good. But when he went to milk a cow He did not have the right kind of a cow.

He set the stool down at the front. Reached round the left to do the stunt. Turned on the power of the press. Jerked back, pulled long, put on more stress.

When that old cow, like lightning quick, Gave him an awful left hand kick That dude went hissing through the air And still is chasing comets there.

This grave does not contain him all—Just a few pencils he let fall—But, say, may return some day By airship through the Milky way.

THE STANDARD OF PERFECTION.

The criterion by which up to date fanciers judge and select fowls is called "The Standard of Perfection."

This text book for breeders and showmen is issued at intervals by the American Poultry Association, an organization for the promotion of the production of pure bred poultry. It contains "a complete description of recognized varieties of fowls," a glossary, list of disqualifications and defects, rules for judges and exhibitors and is handsomely illustrated with fine portraits of ideal fowls.

The rules of the Standard govern poultry shows and most of our county fair poultry exhibits.

A revised Standard is in course of preparation that will cost thousands of dollars and will be the finest poultry standard ever printed. The profits from sales return to the society's treasury, to be expended for further poultry enterprises.

Our readers should have a Standard. It is educative and a good investment. Write your poultry journal editor for particulars.

BEATING THE TRUST.

While the egg trust has been awful busy stacking away eggs to beat the people next winter the people have also been busy preserving eggs to beat the trust at its own game. In June in twenty-eight warehouses in New York there were stacked 1,119,000 cases, or 400,000,000 eggs, an increase of 500,000 cases over last year.

But, say, if you go into lots of cool, clean cellars and rooms in private homes you will also find thousands and thousands of eggs preserved in crocks, kegs and barrels that weren't there last year. This stunt seems to be universal among the people, and the trust is going to have the time of its life the coming season, for it must compete with the antipathy of the people, the uncorrupted fresh egg supply, the large foreign imports and, last, but not least, these home stored eggs. Most of these are preserved in liquid glass, which has kept eggs for four years with less change than comes to a cold storage egg in three months. You didn't put any up? Sorry you didn't have the method. Well, here it is for 1911:

WATER GLASS METHOD.

Place sound, fresh, clean eggs end down in a stone jar. Pour over the layers a solution one part glass to fifteen parts water. If eggs float add more water. Keep in cool, even temperature.

A Mohammedan Festival.

Taboots is an Indian festival in connection with the celebration of the month of Moharram, which begins the year of the true Mohammedan. This festival commemorates the death of Prince Hussein, the grandson of Mohammed, who met his death in battle after ten days' fighting against King Omar. The word taboot, from which the festival takes its name, means literally a tomb, and it is always built in front of the homes of some rich and important Mohammedans and under a temporary shed built for this purpose. The taboots are made from thin bamboo strips covered with highly colored paper, and it is always decorated with isinglass, gold and silver paper, glass balls and much red and green paint. On the ninth day of the festival of Taboots the taboots are carried in a procession through the streets of the various cities in India. On the tenth day all the taboots are thrown into some river, and thus ends the Mohammedan festival of Taboots.—Boston Herald.

LESSON FROM TROLLEY CARDS.

Advertising Men Alive to Value of Home Trade.

THEY URGE LOCAL BUYING.

Cars of Bronx Borough, New York City, Carrying Appeals to Purchasers to Get Their Goods From Their Own Stores—A Policy of Mutual Helpfulness and Co-operation.

In the trolley cars of Bronx borough, New York City, are displayed some advertising cards placed among the other advertisements, presumably without charge, by the company which controls the advertising in the cars of the borough. The cards inform the riders and readers that the articles advertised in the cars are to be found in the stores of the borough and advise the intending purchasers to procure them at home. It is understood, of course, that the quality of standard articles is the same wherever they are purchased, and it is assumed that the merchants of the borough will make as reasonable prices on the articles as any one will.

The position taken by the advertising company in thus helping along the men who help it certainly seems to be a wise one. Local purchasers are induced to buy standard goods, advertised all over the country as well as in the local cars, from the local merchants. The latter are, in turn, enabled to buy advertising space in the cars. The Germans, who are prolific makers of wise sayings, have an old saw which says, "One hand washes the other, and both become clean." It is an encouraging sign of the growing prosperity of the borough that the local merchants are using more and more space in the cars and that the borough newspapers are flourishing as never before.

Isn't there here a moral to be gleaned by other places? The moral is, Encourage home trade by all means. The trade that goes out of a town does not benefit it; it is the trade that seeks and finds its natural outlet at home that helps. It counts not only for the man who gets it, but for the man who gives it, for the latter helps his neighbor as well as himself.

The uplifting of the general level of prosperity which is apt to follow keeping trade at home helps every man and woman in a town by keeping up wages, by distributing profits so that everybody in a town gets a share, direct or indirect, of the benefit.

The mail order houses have their place in the business world, and they do good to the men who run them, many of whom have accumulated much money in the business. But when they take out of any particular town money that should be spent there legitimately they cannot be said to be a benefit to that town.

In addition, there is the personal and social side of the question. Looking at it as fairly as you will, buying goods from a catalogue and sending to a strange, faraway city the money that has been earned in one's home town, often with the advice and cooperation of one's neighbors, is a cold blooded proposition.

How much better it is to meet your neighbor man to man, over your counter or over his, and sell to him or buy from him what one needs! If "life is made up of little things," as has been said very often, the little friendlinesses and greetings of personal intercourse are worth something, probably more than the small profit that is to be gained by patronizing a house far away that can be nothing but the embodiment of "business." And in many cases the monetary profit is only imaginary when the time and bother involved in the transaction and the real worth of goods bought are taken into consideration.

CHARLES N. LURIE.

Dustless Ash Removal Scheme.

Street Cleaning Commissioner Edwards of New York appeared before the finance committee of the board of aldermen recently and asked for $15,000 with which to make experiments aimed to do away with the dust and exposed garbage nuisance. The scheme proposed contemplates the carrying of ash cans from houses to the dump direct without emptying them into carts. The $15,000, if obtained, is to be spent for an auto car carrier, a relay truck, cans, dustless cover devices and other things of the kind. This is considered by many an excellent idea, for it will undoubtedly tend to keep towns and cities in a clean and healthful condition.

Don't Murder Your Trees.

Frequently large signboards are placed against street trees. Where they are fastened with iron bands the latter will soon cut into the very life of the tree, preventing the free circulation of the sap and thereby injuring top and root equally. It is nothing new to see trees half dead standing for years in front of handsome residences, fighting hard for life, shortened by neglect and abuse. The owner is too indolent to have the dry limbs removed, the old, exhausted soil renewed, and so improve, at least for a time, the appearance of the sufferers.

A Town's Main Street.

A drummer whose route takes in fifty towns in Illinois and Indiana says that a town which will not keep its main business street in good repair steadily loses its farmer trade and by and by its best business men.

CHI-NAMEL.

Cousinly Kisses

By MURIEL E. GRAY

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"I'm looking," said an elderly lady in glasses and a couple of short curls on either side of her face, "for a student of the name of Smith."

She was in one of the college dormitories and had with her two very pretty girls, her daughters. She was speaking to a young man who emerged from a door into the corridor and was about to descend the staircase.

"My name is Smith. There are several Smiths in college. Which one are you looking for?"

"Edward B. Smith."

"I'm Edward B. Smith. You can't be."

"Your Aunt Elizabeth."

"You don't mean it! And these girls are—"

"Your cousins, Bess and Ethel."

"Well, well! I'm delighted."

The young man put his arms around the old lady's shoulders in a stage embrace and kissed her back between them. Then he kissed Ethel—on the cheek. Lastly he kissed Bess—on the lips.

"When did you come down, Aunt Elizabeth?" asked the student.

"We reached here this morning. We've been wishing for a long while to see the college, and your mother wrote us that you had come here. Let me see—how many years since we have seen you? It must be ten or twelve. You were then a little boy six or seven years old."

"Bess and I were playmates, I believe."

At the remembrance he gave Bess another kiss.

"Oh, no; you weren't," said the old lady. "You spent but one summer with us, and that summer Bess was obliged to go south with her Uncle Charles' family for her health. You've never seen her before."

"Never seen her before? Well, if this is the first time I hope it won't be the last."

And he kissed her again.

At that moment the real Edward B. Smith came along. Seeing his chum Gardner Dale chatting with an old lady and two pretty girls, he looked wistfully at the latter. Dale excused himself for a moment and went to Smith and whispered:

"These are your aunt and cousins. I've passed myself off for you. If you give me away I'll murder you."

Then, leading Smith up to the ladies, he said:

"This is my chum Gardner Dale. He will be very glad to assist me in showing you the college sights and making your stay pleasant."

"Delighted," said the false Dale, pulling off his cap.

"Smith is a very good fellow," Dale announced to the party, then in a stage whisper to the aunt, "He leads his class and is altogether the most prominent man in college."

"See here, Gard—I mean Ned—you stop that. You can't bribe me that way. What I do I do in pure mercy."

"What is he talking about, Edward?" asked the old lady.

"Oh, he's got modesty on the brain. Besides, he studies so hard he doesn't know what he's talking about."

The young men walked about with the old lady and the two girls, taking them into the different buildings and showing them the sights generally. There was to be a "prom" in the evening, and the students invited the girls to attend it with them. They asked the old lady to go, too, but she obliged them by declining.

"I've always heard," said Bess to Dale—the real Dale—who had paired off with her at the "prom," "that students are so full of pranks. Do you practice them much at your college?"

"Pranks! Oh, no! We have to study so hard here that we have no time for pranks. What kind of pranks do you mean?"

"Well, I heard of a case once where some ladies went to a college to meet a relative they had never seen. One of the students palmed himself off for the one they had come to visit."

"That couldn't have been at this college. A man who would do that here would get the dead end."

The girls enjoyed themselves during the evening and on returning to their hotel bid goodby to the two young men who had escorted them. After being duly thanked and when the young men were about to withdraw Dale stepped forward, kissed Ethel on the cheek and gave Bess a prolonged smack on the lips. Smith stood looking on, much disgruntled.

"Where do I come in?" he asked in a tone that much disturbed the equanimity of his chum lest he should give him away.

"Oh, you'll come in on the way home. I shall have something nice for you."

"No, you won't," growled Smith. "I don't sell my birthright for a mess of pottage. See here, girls; this fellow Dale has been putting up a job on you. He isn't your cousin at all. I'm your cousin."

"Cousin Bess and Cousin Ethel," put in Dale, "he's doing this simply to get a kiss. It's the weakest!"

"Well, I'll be haunted!" interrupted Smith. "If you haven't more gall than a clown at a circus."

The girls laughed and, both springing forward, threw their arms around their real cousin, and each gave him a kiss.

They had known of the imposition all the while. But not so their mother, and they didn't tell her.

SALT NECESSARY FOR THE FLOCK.

Sheep on pasture are often neglected as far as salting is concerned. They are either salted irregularly or not at all. When salt is not supplied to them in sufficient quantities they crave it intensely and, as has been demonstrated by experiments, will not make the gains nor grow the wool they will if properly salted. Salt is often considered a seasoning for the food of animals and not an essential.

It is the only mineral which ordinarily needs to be supplied to live stock. It furnishes chlorine for the digestive juices of the stomach. It aids in transporting from the digestive tract into the blood vessels the albuminoids of the foods, it helps to regulate the density of the blood and governs to a degree the activity of the cells of the body. No sheep can do its best without enough salt.

Salting every few days is sufficient for the needs of the sheep, but it is not as good a method as keeping salt before the sheep all the time, for when a rush of work comes or a visitation time comes salting the sheep is one of the things neglected. When salt is given after a period of neglect the sheep are so eager for it that they take too much, and large quantities of water are needed to wash it out of the system, some of this being drawn from the tissues of the body to the detriment of the sheep.

Rock salt is preferred by some to the coarse stock salt. Many use medicated salt, which serves a double purpose in supplying the sheep's need for salt and in preventing worms. When it is desired to clean out a patch of bad weeds, as Canada thistles, the sheep may be salted on them and will keep them gnawed down to the ground and eventually kill them out.

However, the man who loves his sheep and who therefore has the first requisite of a good shepherd need not be reminded to salt them, for it will be done without fail, just as a hundred other things are done, for the good of the sheep. Watchfulness is that man's great and valuable asset, and he sees many things that need doing where the more careless man sees none.

Worms in the Pigs.

When the young pigs get worms there is not much use attempting to fatten them until relieved of the malady. A simple effective remedy is turpentine fed in milk to pigs in a solution of one teaspoonful once every day to every 100 pounds of weight. The treatment may be continued for three days and may be more beneficial if the pigs are not given other feed for a period of twelve to twenty-four hours before the treatment is begun. The quarters should be kept clean and sanitary, and the pastures should be changed frequently.

Caring For Sheep in Hot Weather.

With the high price of both wool and mutton it is important that we should give the sheep and lamb extra attention during the most trying season of the year. One of these trying seasons is during the latter part of the hot months, when the weather is extremely warm and pasture short.

DAIRY NOTES.

Dairymen Should Be Prepared.

The dairymen should always be ready for any emergency that arises. With her first calf the young cow often has trouble. Caked udder or whatever the trouble may be should be carefully looked after.

The Holland Dairymen.

The cows of Holland live in their owner's house. But don't imagine the stalls are filthy like ours. They are as neat as your sitting room. It is hard to believe that part of the floor is covered with matting and the windows have lace curtains.

The Cow Without Horns.

A dairy cow is better without horns. But when you take them off make a neat job of it—in other words, use an approved instrument and do the work right.

Handling Cream Important.

It is not the way cream is separated from milk, but the way it is handled after being separated, which determines the quality of butter it will make. If kept until it ferments it will make poor butter.

Test and Weigh the Milk.

When you admit that you haven't time to test and weigh the milk so as to keep a record of each cow you haven't time to dairy right.

A Puzzle.

Mother (reprovingly to little girl just ready to go for a walk)—Dolly, that hole was not in your glove this morning. Dolly (promptly)—Where was it, then, mamma?

Couldn't Risk It.

Husband—Did you hunt up the new cook's references? Wife—No, John, I didn't. I was afraid they might prove prejudicial.—Harper's Bazar
